

Call for Participation

We invite you to join us in 5th International Conference on Education, Pedagogy and Technology (EDUPT 2026) serves as a leading global forum for the presentation and exchange of innovative ideas, transformative approaches, and cutting edge research in the fields of education, pedagogy, and educational technology. As learning environments continue to evolve through advancements in digital tools, artificial intelligence, data driven insights, and emerging instructional models, EDUPT 2026 aims to bring together researchers, educators, technologists, and practitioners to explore the future of teaching and learning.

The conference seeks to foster meaningful dialogue and collaboration by providing a platform for sharing pioneering developments, practical implementations, and evidence based practices that address contemporary challenges in education. EDUPT 2026 also highlights emerging trends that require deeper investigation and broader exposure, encouraging contributions that push the boundaries of current knowledge and strengthen the collective goals of the global education community.

Authors are invited to submit high quality articles presenting original research results, innovative projects, comprehensive survey papers, and industrial case studies that demonstrate significant advances in the following areas, but are not limited to:
